

CHERRIES AT YOUNG

TUESDAY 04 DECEMBER 2018

First settled in 1826, the township of Young has grown from a humble sheep station to the thriving regional centre we see today. Rich in history and character, the area was catapulted to the forefront of Colonial New South Wales with the discovery of gold in 1860. This precious metal proved to be an important catalyst in the development of Young and the surrounding area. Originally reserved for lambing ewes, the area was first known as 'Lambing Flat' because of its well-sheltered valley with reliable water supply. The tranquil valley remained as such for 34 years until 1860, when gold was discovered. Young is also acknowledged as the first local government area to institute a rural school bus system in New South Wales. Widely known as the 'Cherry Capital of Australia' the area boasts many cherry and stone fruit orchards.
